

In partnership with  skypeople

A unique career pathway 'umbrella' programme for cabin crew: making that wish to work with an airline/operator as part of its cabin crew team come true!

Feathers® offers you accessible programmes and progression support from early stage interest through to starting and developing your career with an airline.

The programme starts with 'Insights', delivered through a college or independently, this gives everyone a true insight into the role and the requirements that you will need to meet to apply. This is followed by 'Employability' to help you prepare for what the airlines and operators will expect.

Finally, eligible applicants can apply for the 'Attestation of Initial Cabin Crew Training Course' - a safety training course recognised and approved by the UK Civil Aviation Authority, the European Aviation Safety Agency and the Airlines themselves.

Available at selected locations and delivered through our approved partners.

For the first time, Aviation Skills Partnership and its approved partner Skypeople have created a complete pathway from first interest through to the job interview and commencement of training to be cabin crew. By working with our college partners and utilising a new professional qualification for airline cabin crew, the course is the only one of its kind currently offered within UK colleges and is a real legislated qualification, in accordance with the European Air Safety Agency (EASA) and as approved by the Civil Aviation Authority.

Feathers® - the only complete Cabin Crew Pathway

The course offers all the stages of the Cabin Crew Attestation (CCA) – this training can replace the first part of cabin crew training (the generic aspects) which would traditionally be delivered by the airlines.

No previous qualifications are necessary - it is open to anyone who is approaching the minimum age to operate as cabin crew - 18 - and who is interested in joining a European-based airline as cabin crew.

Head of training at Skypeople Collette de Stowe said: “Once they have passed the course, candidates will be ready to apply to the airline of their choice and take on their specific company training. Doing this training is sure to put you one step ahead of the competition!

In a typical college delivery model, travel and tourism students will be able to progress on to the course approaching their 18th birthday but it is also a great opportunity for any adults, whatever their background, to train as cabin crew.

Simon Witts, Chief Executive of Aviation Skills Partnership said “We are delighted to be in partnership with Skypeople as they have an excellent reputation for training world class cabin crew. The partnership means that all of the elements of the pathway are now complete, from first aspiration to the job and beyond.”

Courses will be running regularly, with details on the participating colleges’, Skypeople (www.skypeople.com) and Aviation Skills Partnership (www.aviationskillspartnership.com) websites.
